

WEEKLY EPITAPH.

TOMBSTONE, ARIZONA, AUGUST 8, 1882.

Wanda's Stage Line.
Office, Wells Fargo & Company's building. Stages leave Tombstone for Contention at 8 a. m., and for the Tombstone and at 1:30 p. m. and for the Tombstone and at 3:30 p. m. Accommodation stage for Contention will leave every day at 7:30 a. m. and at 3:30 p. m., city time.

Opposition Line.
N. Smith's Opposition Stage Line leaves Tombstone every day at 8 a. m. and 1:30 p. m., and connects with the morning and evening trains at Contention. Fare, $1.00.

Mails.
Eastern Mail—including all points east of Ben-don—leaves at 9 a. m.
Western Mail—including all points west of Ben-don—leaves at 11:30 a. m.
Money Order business closes 3 p. m.
Register business closes 3:30 p. m.
No Money Order or Register business transacted after office hours.

NEW RAILROAD TIME TABLE.

EASTWARD.
San Francisco.....leave at 7 a. m. every day
Los Angeles.....leave at 7:30 a. m. second day
Benson.....leave at 8:30 a. m. third day
Deming.....leave at 9:30 a. m. fourth day
Kansas City.....leave at 10:30 a. m. fifth day
St. Louis.....leave at 11:30 a. m. sixth day
New York.....leave at 12:30 p. m. eighth day

WESTWARD.
New York.....leave at 6 p. m. every day
St. Louis.....leave at 7:30 p. m. second day
Kansas City.....leave at 8:30 p. m. third day
Deming.....leave at 9:30 p. m. fourth day
Benson.....leave at 10:30 p. m. fifth day
Los Angeles.....leave at 11:30 p. m. sixth day
San Francisco.....arrive at 12:30 p. m. eighth day

THE LATEST DEAL.

Prospects of Railroad Building.
A direct line from Tombstone to the Tombstone to be the main line.

The Epitaph has pretty straight information concerning the construction plans of the A. T. & S. F. Railroad Company and there is no doubt but that Tombstone is included in the calculations of the company. A survey has been completed from Socorro to Silver City, New Mexico, through the Black Range, and from Silver City to Deming. From this latter point the road will be continued to Fairbanks, taking in Tombstone on the way. Old John Scott, the well known contractor, removed his camp from Tombstone to Silver City a few days ago, and will immediately commence work on the grade from that place to Deming. P. J. Keegan, another contractor, will commence on the grade from Deming to this city on the 10th of this month and above it to completion with as much dispatch as possible. It is supposed that the reason of this move is in consequence of difficulties between the two companies, which resulted in the S. P. withdrawing the use of their track from the Santa Fe folks at the expiration of the present year. The proposed route from the Tombstone to Silver City will pass through an immense mineral country, and will be in the nature of a feeder for the main line. It is calculated that the grade from Deming to Fairbanks will be completed before the first of November, and track-laying will then be immediately commenced and prosecuted assiduously. It is also pretty generally understood that the Santa Fe folks have assumed the franchise of the California Southern, and the line from Calabasas to San Diego. The latter route has a subsidy of $50,000 per mile from the Mexican government for that portion that passes on Mexican territory, and Governor Luna, of Lower California, is Vice President of the company. This subsidy is payable only on condition that work shall commence on the road before the first of next January, and that the road be completed within a year from that date. Under these restrictions it is supposed that the Bee Line will be pushed forward rapidly, and that by the time the main road is completed from Deming to Fairbanks the Bee Line will have made good headway. It is the intention of the Santa Fe company to have a direct line from Kansas City to the Pacific, and hints of a deal with the Pacific Mail Steamship company have recently been published in the Eastern press. It is certain that the California Southern and the Pacific Mail company are not as slow as they used to be, and it is not at all improbable that Tom Nickerson has seduced John Roach from his first love. It is certain that competent engineers were recently sent by the Santa Fe company to make a thorough examination of the basin of San Diego, with the intention of converting it into a port of entry for the Pacific Mail steamers, in case Nickerson and Roach should come to terms when the main line is completed to San Diego.

There is no doubt but that Tombstone will be a winner by the new move, and give it a commanding position on a great trans-continental line of railroad, and direct communication with the seaboard. Being the nearest city of any consequence to the junction of the Sonora railroad with the Santa Fe, it will give Tombstone merchants a considerable increase of business of the Mexican trade to this city. That is the present aspect of affairs, and unless the calculations of the company are unexpectedly upset, we may see the realization of this grand scheme ere another year.

A FIGHTING CITY DAD.

Sweet-scented Thomas Engages in a Street Brawl—Gets His Face Blotched and Hauled to Jail.

A party named Charley Thomas, whom the accidents of fortune permitted to be elected a member of the City Council during a temporary popular error, a little less than a year ago, hauled into the city jail last night for engaging in a fight and using indecent and profane language in a public place. Thomas has long been an eye-sore to the Tombstone body politic. From San Jose, California, where he formerly resided, various stories have reached us of his athletic propensities. We have heard of how he bilked his neighbors out of swaddling clothes for his babe and death garments for his wife. He has long been a stench to the respectable portion of the Tombstone community, yet like many other nuisances it was necessary to tolerate him. He has been an Ishmael, used by a few and despised by every body, yet by a native cunning, for which the little rascal is remarkable, he has managed to keep himself brushing against the sleeves of decent people almost daily. Yesterday, when whiskey was easily had, he managed to get himself full, and it being a surprise to his system to get anything but cold water and porridge, he banquipped on the unexpected acquisition. About nine o'clock, while in the immediate state of intoxication, he entered a saloon on Allen street and began to abuse the fire department. Foreman Blackburn of the engine company chanced to be a listener, and told the impudent cad to shut his mouth. He declined to notice the admonition, but instead drove back and struck at Mr. Blackburn, but the latter was too quick for him, and instead of giving him a received a vigorous blow. Blackburn then very properly proceeded to thrash him, and would have made mince meat of him in a few minutes had not the ever vigilant police arrived, and Coyle and Kenney hauled them both off to jail. Mr. Blackburn was bailed out instantaneously, and Thomas subsequently secured some parties to give bonds for his appearance to-day.

WEEKLY MINING REVIEW.

The past week has been uneventful in local mining matters. Things are running along about as usual, without material difference, save in the number of new prospects that are being opened up and developed. The following is the latest, so far as could be gleaned by our reporters:

VIZINA.
The south drift on the 400 foot level is now extended 80 feet in ledge matter. The north drift 125 in quartz or porphyry. The drift going west at 300 feet is now 105 feet. Expect to strike ledge and connect with upraise from 400 foot level at about 150 feet. Still shipping a fine quality of ore from the upper level.

STONEWALL.
The west wing in the 150 level is now down 150 feet, all in good ore. The south crosscut in the 100 is in thirty feet. A rich streak of ore accompanied the crosscut all the way. Stopping is continued in the 100 level, and about 125 tons of ore is shipped daily.

RAIGLE.
This claim is showing up fine and promises to turn into one of our extensive bonanzas at no distant day. The shaft is now down about sixty six feet, and the ledge is widening as rapidly as the shaft is being sunk. A streak of extremely rich ore has been hanging well for the past few days, and unless appearances are deceitful something big may be expected in a few days. The ground is pretty hard and progress is not made as rapidly as heretofore.

MARGURITA.
Work commenced on this claim on the 27th, and will be continued until the shaft attains a depth of 100 feet. It is now down 38 feet, and looking very promising. The ledge is four feet, and contains horn silver and black manganese of the same general character as the Randolph.

RANDOLPH.
Winze No. 3 is now down ninety feet, and discloses a fine body of high grade ore. No. 1 is down thirty-eight feet, all in ore. No. 2 is down thirty-four feet, and No. 4 has just been started. The north-east drift won't No. 4 winze is in about forty feet. The developments are equal to those reported for the last month. The ore bodies in 2 and 4 winzes are immense, fully twelve feet of ore being exposed without encountering a wall. More than 200 tons of ore was extracted last week without any stopping. All the work done in the nature of developments and no ore is hoisted except what is actually in the plant. Will commence shipping ore to the mill to-day, and the first run will be made in a few days.

FRANKLIN.
The crosscut east from the 100 level is now in about 75 feet. Several small streaks of rich ore have been cut, but are not extensive enough to warrant drifting. The east crosscut is in about fifty feet, without any extensive strike being encountered.

BLUE JACKET.
Two shafts are being sunk on this promising mine, and both look up well. Shaft No. 1 is down 40 feet, and No. 2 is about 25 feet. Ore has been encountered all the way down, and the shafts will be continued until a depth of 100 feet is attained, when crosscutting and drifting will commence. The vein crops out 500 feet down the hill, and a tunnel was started yesterday, with the intention of tapping the shaft at the depth of 100 feet from the surface.

EMPIRE.
The north drifts in the 400 and 450 levels are going along nicely and looking good. The west crosscut in the 450 level is making good progress. The south drift in the same level is progressing nicely in low grade ore. The stopes in the 400 and 450 levels are looking good and producing the usual amount of ore. The winze from the 400 to the 450 connected last Tuesday, at a distance of 500 feet from the shaft. The usual quantity of ore is being hoisted and the mine is looking in excellent condition.

TOMBSTONE M. & M. CO.
Nothing of unusual consequence has transpired in the mines of this company during the past week. The West Side coming on strong, and promises to turn into one of the greatest bonanzas yet discovered in Tombstone. The works heretofore reported are continued, and nothing new or startling has been inaugurated.

CONTENTION.
In reporting the bullion output of this mine last month, the intelligent compositor led us into an unconscious error. The figures should have been $166,413.25, instead of $141,232.40. The drift on the lower levels are being driven slowly in consequence of unusually hard ground. The other works are running along smoothly without much change. The usual quantity of ore is being extracted. Ten stamps of the Girard mill are still working on Contention second class.

GRAND CENTRAL.
Good progress is being made on the drifts and crosscuts on the 500 and 600 levels, but nothing has been struck as yet. The ground is getting softer, and the works are being driven with more rapidity than heretofore. The prospects indicate ore in the near vicinity, and we should not be surprised if a strike is reported one of these days. The stopes throughout the mine are looking well, and the usual amount of ore is being shipped to the mill.

WINFIELD.
Eighteen men are delving away with as much dispatch as possible in this mine. Ore assaying from $200 to $1,000 is being hoisted, and the dump will average $250. Two shafts working ten hours each are working out good progress is being made. Two shafts have been sunk, one to a depth of 100 and the other to 130 feet. Connection has been made by a drift. The ore body at bottom of shaft measures twelve feet. Sinking is continued on both shafts.

COPPEROLIS OF MISHIE.
Started up Aug. 1, sinking old shaft near center of claim; going down on foot wall of ledge which pitches about 15 degrees, and sinking a perpendicular in a southerly direction; size of shaft 4 by 6, all in ore. Mr. Thomas Daniels, formerly foreman of the Horse Shoe mine, is foreman of the Copperolis. Should the ore hold out in depth, as it has every appearance of doing at present, a permanent working shaft will be sunk, and a smaller shaft at an early date. The surface indications of this mine, its present fine showing, together with its close proximity to the Copper Queen—about 800 feet westerly—renders the Copperolis a most desirable property, well worth the investment of capital, which, if properly handled and well managed, should soon add another bullion producer to Biabie and an increased income to its stockholders.

FAIK VILLA.
Shaft has attained a depth of 100 feet. Will commence to run a drift on Friday, from bottom of shaft, southwest on the ledge, which is now the full width of shaft containing seams of ore of good quality. Will also start to crosscut at the same time for footwall west; are now in very interesting ground, justifying us in expressing an opinion that they will find a large and rich ore body in the drift, in close proximity to the shaft, for on close examination it is found that the ledge makes wider south, containing richer mineral coming in straight, and regularly stratified, making a downward course. Work is being carried on effectively and in good shape.

SAN PEDRO.
Winze on 305 foot level is down 32 feet, bottom of winze is in highly mineralized rock. Commenced drifting west on 305 foot level in ore with most satisfactory results.

GUELPH CON.

Work on this mine is being pushed along vigorously, and it is looming up in fine condition. The ledge shows six feet of good mineral without a foot wall being yet discovered. The ledge seems to open up rapidly as it sinks into the earth, and increase in quality with every blast that explodes. The shaft is down about fifty-five feet. A full force is at work and development will be pushed forward rapidly.

OLD GUARD.
A fine quality of high grade ore is being extracted from the 80 level. A winze has been started from the east drift on the 330 level. Commenced shipping ore to Boston mill yesterday. Will mill eighty tons.

SAN DIEGO.
The shaft on this mine has now attained a depth of 378 feet and sinking is still continued. The south drift on the 350 level is in 167 feet and looking good. The north drift on same level has been driven 135 feet. The north drift on the 268 level is in ninety-one feet. The mine is in excellent condition all the way through.

TRANQUILITY.
Work has been continued here with avidity, and the mine is showing up in most flattering manner. The steam hoisting works were started up during the past week, and it is expected that connection will be made with the whip shaft in about ten days. The quality of ore extracted remains about the same, and according to present indications an immense body of rich ore cannot be avoided. Ten stamps of the Girard mill continue at work on Tranquility ore, and as soon as the proper connections are made, doubtless the entire facilities of the Girard mill will be devoted to Tranquility ore.

INGERSOLL.
The upraise from the 80 level will reach the surface some time this week. The works heretofore reported are continued and good progress is being made. The ore bodies are holding out well, and the mine is in excellent condition all the way through.

MOLLIE.
This is a triangular claim situated between a Triangle and Defense. It is owned by J. W. Stamp and son, and work on the claim was commenced a few days ago. It shows up pretty well, and promises to imitate its neighbor, the Ingersoll, at no distant day.

HEAD CENTER.
Stopping between the first and second levels is continued, and the usual amount of ore is being hoisted to the surface. The mine is in excellent condition, and there is plenty of ore in sight. It is expected that steam hoisting works will be in operation in a few days.

PEABODY (COCHISE DISTRICT).
Judge Moses, who returned from the Cochise district Tuesday night, informs us that he took in the Peabody during his trip in that part of the Territory. The judge is an old mining man, and his opinion regarding mines is far from being insignificant. He states that the main incline shaft goes down at an angle of 55 degrees; that fourteen men stooped out 500 tons of ore on the fifty foot level last month; that there are five feet of solid ore in the 110 level. The drift southeast from the 110 is in the same quality of ore. The main incline shaft is down one hundred and thirty-five feet, with ten feet of solid ore at the bottom, without walls being yet discovered. The lower levels are looking better, and the usual amount of ore is being piled on the dump, while not less than 250 tons are at the smelter, giving an average output of 25 per cent. copper. Most of the ore extracted yields $100 per ton gold and silver in addition to the copper. Judge Moses is of opinion that the Peabody is the highest, copper property in this county, and has a high opinion of the Cochise district in general.

BULWER.
This promising claim is located between the San Pedro and Fair Villa, and promises big things when properly developed. The croppings on the ledge stick out for 1400 feet, and assay at the grass roots very flatly. Work will be commenced in a few weeks and prosecuted assiduously.

NOTE.
Good reports still continue from the Thunderbolt.

The Mainie is being worked, and is showing up in good shape.

Professor Church has gone to Hermusillo.

Superintendent Batterman of the Head Center has gone to the Huachuclas.

Foreman Quirk, of the T. M. & M. Co., is out since Sunday in search of the horses stolen Saturday night.

Superintendent Fuller is the busiest man in town now-a-days. Between looking after his mine, shipping ore, and attending to mill improvements, his time is pretty well taken up.

Charley Leach, foreman of the Grand Central, is rusticated in California. Mr. Kelly is acting foreman in his absence.

Charley Kaighan is rapidly getting the Randolph mill in shape, and a start will be made in a few days. If anybody can make machinery run smooth Kaighan can.

Turquoise District is still on the boom. Superintendent Power of the Last Chance, reports that promising property is a frisky condition.

Reports from the Huachuclas speak in favor of prospects in that vicinity. Tombstone district is booming.

From Cochise District.

RUSSELL, August 2, 1882.
The mining interests of this camp, for the week, stand as showing the usual encouraging results, for what has been done in developing the mines and taking out ores.

The Peabody has never given better results for better promise for the future. The upraise here connected with the main shaft and now the mine is a full circle of rain air throughout the whole lower workings. By this ventilation the work is carried on in all parts of the mine with greater facility and better results in the stopping, drifting, and sinking. The winze is down about 25 feet, widened to a breast of 16 feet, and gives the vein with pay ore between 8 and 10 feet across. The stopes are yielding great abundance and of rich grade ore. The southeast drift on the 100 foot level is in now 110 feet and shows fairly. The ore in winze improves with depth.

The San Antonio mine is now down 20 feet on vein, shaft being 75 feet and all in ore. This mine is very encouraging to the extent explored. The shaft shows the vein on an incline with a trend to the north-east, at an angle of 45 degrees. The ore in grade has greatly improved as depth has been attained. This property, like the most of the camp, carries in its ores their own fluxing. In last week's report an error was made in stating about the purchase of the San Antonio. The mine was not the only purchase. General Marshall of Denver, Col., and General Arms of New York are associated with Mr. Wassels in the purchase of the San Antonio, which also includes the Cleburne mine here, a very promising one, from surface indications, and which is being developed under the same management with the San Antonio.

The Russell Company's smelter is being run regularly with a large result in bullion. The daily run gives from eleven to twelve thousand pounds of bullion, and the bullion is of a fineness of 90 to 95 per cent. copper, carrying from one to two hundred dollars per ton in gold and silver. The only fluxing used in reducing the ores of this company is lime, used in small quantities, and which is obtained at very small cost, a quarry being located near the smelter and the mine, only a short distance away.

The Russell Company's smelter is being run regularly with a large result in bullion. The daily run gives from eleven to twelve thousand pounds of bullion, and the bullion is of a fineness of 90 to 95 per cent. copper, carrying from one to two hundred dollars per ton in gold and silver. The only fluxing used in reducing the ores of this company is lime, used in small quantities, and which is obtained at very small cost, a quarry being located near the smelter and the mine, only a short distance away.

The camp is still growing in population and business, and everything has an upward tendency.

Mr. H. C. Bigler, one of the parties selling in the San Antonio, has just arrived from Fort Worth, Texas. He has other mining interests here, which he is looking after, and proposes to develop. He will be with the camp as a citizen hereafter, and thoroughly acquainted with its future. Further sections are expected soon, which will be of great benefit to the camp. Yours, truly, H. T.

THE POLITICAL CALDRON.

Republican Primaries—A Grab for the Spoils—Athenion the Favorite Son—A Bull Day, but a Brisk Evening.

The Republican primary meetings yesterday were in the main uneventful. A general lack of enthusiasm was a prevailing feature, and bitterness the incentive to the contest. It was evident at an early hour that it was a contest between the city and country. McCarty and Ward were known to have a strong following, divided between them in the country by the prospects while Athenion was the white haired boy of the city clans. The Republican city ring kept very quiet for some weeks back, and it was really difficult to find out who the ring had set eyes upon for an available candidate. The Epitaph, earlier, time and time again attempted to interview Mr. Dunbar, the editor of the organ, but notwithstanding the equivocal methods adopted to draw him a "pointer" could not be either begged or purchased. For a while it seemed as if McCarty was the man of the hour in the class seemed gathering around him and the placid face of the candidate made the reporter congratulate himself with being possessed of more than usual shrewdness. Then, again, the Republican came time ago reprinted a very flattering notice of Mr. Ward from a California paper, and the journalistic instinct of the Epitaph man caused him to believe that the heavy guns of the radicals were manned behind the Ward breakthrough. But all our calculations were upset. Dibble was away from town, and the city ring, in fact the well known chief of the Tombstone radicals had back-fallen to his beloved Arizona, and gone to wrestle with a legal problem at the Victoria district, New Mexico. In this particular the reporter got fooled. He had understood that the faithful friends of the city ring, who were content to the chief, but now it turns out that Dunbar backed Athenion without the consent or permission of the boss. The faithful were all at sea and the wisest in the herd could not predict the next move, when, to the astonishment of all, it was ascertained around on Thursday evening that Dibble had returned. The report was well founded, and no sooner had he returned than he took the bit between his teeth and announced that Athenion was his candidate for Sheriff. Of course the old mining man was extremely flattered, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders that Athenion should be supported all along the line. That the country men were inclined to favor Ward or McCarty was not the least of the chief's gain, and the chief of his party should endorse his choice, and thus it was that the contest of yesterday morning opened. It is pretty well understood that Dibble read the riot act to Dunbar for permitting the bubs to break out at the meeting the other night, and for the most of measures that he could not restrain his herd he would find somebody who could. The chief also gave orders